Start here · Guidance from the CEO

How we run the sprint.

Roles, the daily routine, how you report, how decisions get made, and the training order. Read this once tonight, then keep it next to the playbook.

Sprint: 12 Nov – 1 Dec 2026 · Internal target: first advance by 25 Nov

Internal · Outgrid Labs, Baner, Pune

01 · THE ONE GOAL

One ₹1 lakh+ build. Advance in the bank. Nothing else counts.

Likes, followers, a prettier website and "interested" leads are not progress. Money received is. Every hour this sprint should move a qualified owner one step closer to paying.

25 Nov
Internal deadline for the first advance. 1 Dec is the buffer, not the plan.

₹60k+
Minimum advance (40% of a ₹1.5L Launch tier).

4
Proposals walked through live to expect one close.

Who does what

Role	Owns	Does not do
CEO (Claude)	Plan, pricing, scripts, proposal drafts, call prep, role-play training, deal reviews, the next day's priorities, correcting mistakes fast.	Cannot send messages, take calls or remember anything that isn't written in the repo or told in chat.
Co-CEO (you)	Every conversation, calls, walk-ins, demos, the build, asking for money, updating the tracker, the nightly report.	Rewriting strategy mid-sprint. Discounting. Starting work before the advance.

The repo is our memory. Anything not in `sales/tracker.csv`, `sales/DECISIONS.md` or your report does not exist for me. Five minutes of updates each night saves hours of re-explaining.

The daily routine

Time	Block	Done when
9:30–10:30	Reply to every inbound with S1/S2 (2-hour rule). Send 10 S5 messages to featured founders.	Inbox at zero, 10 S5 sent
10:30–1:00	Build block: the white-label base this week, branded demos after that.	Demo progress logged
1:00–2:00	10 outbound messages (S3/S4) + S9 follow-ups due today.	10 sent, follow-ups cleared
3:30–6:30	Calls and walk-ins: owners are free between rushes. Two afternoons a week in the field.	Every live deal moved one step
6:30–7:00	One content piece, tracker updated, nightly report sent.	Report sent

Calls beat building: if a qualified owner can talk at 11 am, the build block moves. Your remote job always wins a real conflict; don't trade income you have for income you hope for.

02 · REPORTING

The nightly report: five lines, every night, even when it's all zeros.

> COPY Report · [date]
> 1. Messages sent: S5 __ · outbound __ · follow-ups __
> 2. Replies: __ (qualified 4–5 checks: __)
> 3. Calls: booked __ · held __ · walk-ins __
> 4. Demos sent __ · proposals walked through __
> 5. ₹ collected: __
> Stuck on: [one line] · Tomorrow's top 3: [three lines]

What I do with it: compare it against the funnel, tell you which deal to push, which to drop, and rewrite any script that isn't getting replies. If the same step stalls two nights running, we change the method, not the effort.

The Sunday review (30 minutes)

1. Update the real funnel numbers: conversations → qualified → calls → demos → proposals → advances.
2. Find the leakiest step. That is next week's only training focus.
3. Kill any deal with no reply after the day 10 follow-up (S9). Move it to the broadcast list.
4. Pick the content track that produced the most qualified leads and double it.
5. This is the only time strategy can be reopened. Write any change into `DECISIONS.md`.

03 · DECISION PROTOCOL

How to stop overthinking.

Overthinking is an open decision that keeps running in the background. The fix is to close decisions fast and in writing, not to think harder.

Situation	What you do
Covered by the playbook or DECISIONS.md	Do what it says. No debate.
Not covered, easy to undo (wording, which lead first, a time slot)	Decide within 10 minutes. Write it in the report. I'll correct it if it's wrong.
Not covered, hard to undo (a price, a discount, a scope promise, a start date, a contract term)	Say "Let me confirm and get back to you by tonight." Message me. Never commit on the spot.
New idea (ready-made apps, ads, a new segment, a new service)	Write it in a "parking lot" line in the report. We look at it on Sunday, not before.
Feeling stuck or unsure	Do the next small physical action: send one message, make one call. Action is the cure; more planning is not.

Three sentences to say to yourself: "Done beats perfect." · "A no today is better than a maybe for a month." · "My job today is conversations, not certainty."

04 · TRAINING PLAN

Six modules, in the order you'll need them.

Each module has a short read, drills, an assignment and a pass mark. Role-plays are done with me in chat: you type exactly what you'd say, I play the owner and score you.

#	Module	When	Pass mark
01	Qualify in two messages	Thu 12 Nov	Every inbound today answered with S1/S2 and scored on the five checks in the tracker.
02	The discovery call	Fri 13 Nov	16/20 on the role-play rubric, before your first real call.
06	Call prep: spare parts marketplace	Fri 13 Nov	Prep sheet filled in; role-play passed at 1 pm.
05	Speak the owner's language (domain primer)	Sat 14 Nov	Can explain each segment's money leak in two sentences, without notes.
03	Branded demo and proposal walkthrough	Sun 15 Nov	Base demo recorded as a 2-minute video; mock walkthrough done with me.
04	Closing and collecting the advance	Mon 16 Nov	20 objection cards answered aloud in under 15 seconds each; the advance ask said word for word.

Daily practice (15 minutes, before the 3:30 calls block)

- Say the advance ask (S7) out loud three times. Your voice must not drop or rush on the number.
- Five random objection cards from Module 04, answered aloud.
- Re-read your notes from yesterday's calls: what did the owner say about money?

The non-negotiables

☐ No work starts before the advance is in the bank. Not a screen, not a spec.

☐ No price below ₹1L for a build. No discount for the same scope.

☐ No proposal sent as a PDF and left alone. Always walked through live.

☐ No deal without a next step and a date in the tracker.

☐ No promise you can't keep with freelancers: launch dates carry two weeks of buffer.

☐ No talking down the competition. Ask the three questions (rider/admin apps, code ownership, Saturday-night support) and let the owner judge.
